

Does the Tariff Help or Hinder?

Is it true that the American farmer buys in a protected market and sells in a world market? Does the tariff favor industry at the expense of agriculture? Or does the farmer share the benefits of protection? Would free trade help? Would higher duties boost the farmer's income?

E. V. Wilcox has figured the debits and the credits of the tariff as it hits the farmer's pocketbook—what high protection costs him and what he gets out of it. Read

1,300,000--and Growing

The circulation of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is more than 1,300,000 a month and is growing rapidly among the leadership farm families of the whole United States—those who live in good homes, who have modern conveniences, who have money to spend for what they want.

A recent survey in eleven states shows that 93 per cent. of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN'S subscribers have automobiles and 14 per cent. have more than one car to the family—giving them quick and easy transportation to towns where goods are sold.

With such a circulation among modern farm families, THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN offers an unparalleled opportunity to those manufacturers who are seeking to extend their markets among rural people, who number nearly half the total population of the United States.

117 FEATURES FOR FARM FAMILIES

Every single item in the 192-page October issue of THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN was chosen because of its particular appeal to the men, the women, the boys and the girls on the farms of America. That is equally true of the feature articles, the fiction, the women's section, the technical farm departments.

The Country Gentlewoman, a big section for women, is in itself a complete women's magazine, with fashions, cookery, health and beauty, handicraft, home furnishing, entertainment, care of children—all directed toward women who live in the country.

5,000 Restaurant Men Gather For Big Annual Convention Which Opens Here Today

Approximately 2,500 Visitors Already in City With Special Trains To Arrive Today.

BY BEN COOPER.

Hospitality of the type that keeps alive the true welcome ideals of the Old South will be extended for four days, starting today by Atlanta to the National Restaurant Men's association, in convention at the auditorium.

Faced with a battery of speakers revealing a chautauqua program, exhibits of modern, time and labor-saving machines and entertainment features calculated to furnish a rip-roaring good time, the convention will get away to a good start at 9 o'clock this morning, when preliminary details of registration will be completed.

The official opening of the convention will take place at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when welcome addresses by Governor Walker and Mayor Sims will give the keys to the city to the 5,000 or more visitors. J. Harry Joyce, of Portland, Ore., first vice president of the association, will respond.

More than 5,000 visitors are expected to attend the Atlanta meeting with 2,000 registered in late Monday night.

Buffalo Likely in 1927.

Pre-convention meetings of the association will go to Buffalo, N. Y. A vote on the next convention city will be taken

Friday, with invitations so far received from Atlantic City, Cincinnati and Louisville in addition to Buffalo. Although Atlantic City is sending a large delegation of members, Buffalo is believed to have an edge on the convention city race, as she gave up last year in favor of Atlanta. The new convention city must have a member of the board of directors living in it, and Buffalo is so situated that the director who preceded the victory to Atlanta last year is still in office and will ask the backing of the Atlanta director.

Outcome of the presidential race is in doubt, as J. Harry Joyce, of Portland, Ore., first vice president, and in line for the leadership of the organization, has declined to accept the nomination because of ill health. This throws the race wide open, with Percy Brown, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., third vice president; George Stoughton, of Minneapolis, and W. L. Sharkey, of Jacksonville, directors, the most prominently mentioned men for the place. Guy Brown, of Philadelphia, Pa., second vice president, will not attend the convention, and is not in the race, it was said Monday.

President Bookhoff, on his arrival in the city Monday, expressed great pleasure at the outlook for the convention, stating that he believed the Atlanta meeting will rank as by far the best ever held. With Kansas City as a birthplace and first convention city, the convention has been held in Washington, Cincinnati, Detroit, Los Angeles and Cleveland to date.

"Things are in better shape for the convention 12 hours before the opening than they have ever been before," President Bookhoff said. "Practically all of the speakers are here a day ahead of time, nearly all of the convention delegates are on hand, and the exposition is ready to open."

Business Increasing.

"In spite of a trying year for business, the restaurant industry has emerged successfully," Mr. Bookhoff declared. "Indications point to a successful year for 1927, with business ever on the increase. There have been few failures in the restaurant business during the past year, which augurs well for the future also," he said.

A meeting of the directors of the organization was held Monday night at the Baltimore, in accordance with the constitution of the association, which provides that a meeting of the directors be held the night previous to the opening of the annual session.

Representatives of the press and association officers were entertained Monday at the Ansley hotel at an old-fashioned chicken dinner. The meeting was a "get-acquainted" affair at which no addresses were made with the exception of a short talk in which H. J. Bookhoff, of Des Moines, Iowa, president of the association, outlined the objects of the organization.

Social Features Planned.

While a great deal of attention has been paid to the business and speaking side of the convention, the social end has not been neglected. There will be the annual president's ball and reception tonight at the Baltimore, barbeque at Stone Mountain Wednesday, and the annual banquet Thursday night at the Baltimore, while one of the biggest features of the meeting will be the typical "Down South" entertainment Wednesday night on the roof of the Ansley hotel.

Wednesday will be Atlanta Day at the restaurant exposition, and the public is cordially invited by the association to come to the auditorium and inspect the devices on exhibition, such as washing, mashing and peeling machines. One big feature of the exposition will be the exhibit of pottery and china making in which expert hands will turn out beautiful plates, cups, etc., while one watches.

JONES MEN LOSE IN SUPREME COURT

Washington, October 4.—(AP)—The supreme court today dismissed for want of jurisdiction the appeals of Wade Johnson and Jarrett A. Benford, white youths convicted in Jones county, Georgia, of rape.

They sought a new trial alleging among other grounds that they had not been granted a proper opportunity to consult counsel.

MAY APPEAL. LAWYERS SAY.

Macon, Ga., October 4.—(AP)—Attorneys W. A. McClellan and W. O. Cooper, of Macon, appeared before the United States supreme court today in behalf of the Jones county boys.

Johnson and Benford have been in jail since shortly after they were arrested for criminal assault on an aged woman in Jones county, who died as the result of the attack, according to doctors. The two young men were tried in Jones county superior court shortly after the crime was committed and the death penalty was imposed.

The case was appealed through the Georgia courts and then to the United States supreme court in an effort to save their lives.

Both Johnson and Benford lived at Milledgeville. The crime was committed in May, 1924.

Benford and Johnson will take their fight for life to Governor Walker and the prison commission, as their last resort, according to T. A. Jacobs, associate counsel, tonight.

Mr. Jacobs said that it might be possible to get the case back into the Georgia supreme court on an extraordinary motion for a new trial, or on the grounds of newly discovered evidence but that he did not think that such would be likely.

When seen in Bibb county jail here today neither of the two men would make any statement.

CUDAHY DECLARES STOCK DIVIDEND

Chicago, October 4.—(AP)—The Cudahy Packing company today declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on its 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, payable November 1 to stock of record October 20 and 3 1-2 per cent on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock payable the same date to stock of record October 20.

Individuality in Toilet Articles

Just as the great American Beauty surpasses the tiny Rambler, so a toilet article of real quality exceeds in goodness and character that product whose appeal is price.

Delicate, subtle odors of the finer perfumes, toilet waters, lotions and powders are indicative of cultured preference, and are, after all, most economical, for their pleasing aroma lingers with increasing charm.

We are proud of our toilet article department, for it is stocked with preparations whose goodness of quality combines with individual taste, establishing a demand that is enduring.

To The Voters Of Fulton County

This is an appeal for you to vote against John Holder.

THIS IS THE REASON WHY:

We, the undersigned, being five of the nine trustees representing more than eighty per cent of the common depositors of the Bank of East Point.

We went to the Banking Department for their assistance in a plan to reopen the Bank of East Point. They cooperated with us cheerfully and efficiently, and outlined a plan upon which the bank might be reopened. This required the written consent of the depositors and more than eighty per cent of them cheerfully signed the agreement submitted by the Banking Department.

John Holder is Chairman of the Highway Department. Its shops are located in East Point. The secretary of the Highway Department, Seward M. Smith, and personal counsel to John N. Holder, was appointed Liquidating Agent of the Bank of East Point.

Amongst the creditors who are holding up this plan are the employees of the Highway Department. This will prevent the reopening of the Bank of East Point.

The Highway Department had on deposit in this bank $43,000, which has since been paid by the Banking Department.

The chief sufferers by this opposition are the honest wage earners and laboring men who put their money in this bank. If Mr. Holder, as Chairman of the Highway Department, and its employees, had cooperated with us and with the Banking Department, the Bank of East Point would be open and doing business today.

GREENS INCREASINGLY FAVORED BY MANY INTERIOR DECORATORS

"Practical as well as popular," says Lucy D. Taylor, interior decorator, lecturer, and author of "Your Home Beautiful"

"Do I think green is growing in favor with interior decorators?" repeated Miss Taylor in response to our question.

"It certainly is. And why not? Green, first of all, is such a comfortable color to live with. Then, in its lighter shades it works easily into a background for many other tones in the room's furnishings.

Browns, reds, some tones of blue, yellow, and even mulberry and gray appear lovely in conjunction with green.

"You will notice that I put brown first in my list of colors that can be pleasingly associated with green. This is because so much of our modern furniture does come in brown—walnut, mahogany, dark oaks, all the popular Early American furniture in light maple.

"The new linoleum patterns, such as duo-tone rippled Jasper, and the large and small tiles are extremely effective for these green backgrounds."

"Linoleum? But where are the seams?"

"No tacks, no brads, no seams? Why, that's not a linoleum floor as I know it."

Do you know that it is possible for you to have a modern, patterned floor of Armstrong's Linoleum cemented in place over builders' deadening felt? This manner of laying eliminates ugly seams, warping, and shrinking and presents a smooth, easy-to-clean surface.

There is no upset or bother. Rugs and furniture are moved into another room. The felt underlayment is pasted down and the linoleum neatly cemented over it.

Seams are neatly joined. Edges waterproofed. The whole surface rolled smooth, neat, and firm.

An interior in the Early American fashion now so popular. Armstrong's Marble T8 No. 72 has just the proper amount of green to harmonize with light maple tones in furniture and hangings.

GREEN... the favored color in home decoration

You'll find it in dozens of new Armstrong designs in this Fall Display

GREEN is coming in home decoration. Decorators have turned to it in planning their smartest color schemes.

Now you will find new and beautiful shades of green in modern floor patterns of Armstrong's Linoleum.

For months our designers worked to produce patterns and colors most appropriate for the home. Hundreds of color schemes were tried out. The approved designs, now on display at local stores, are America's prettiest, newest note in linoleum floors.

Patterns all the way from close designs, all-over effects, to bold, striking tiles. Colors from delicate pastel shades to deep, rich tones. Not only in the season's shades of green, but in reds and grays, blues and tans, as well.

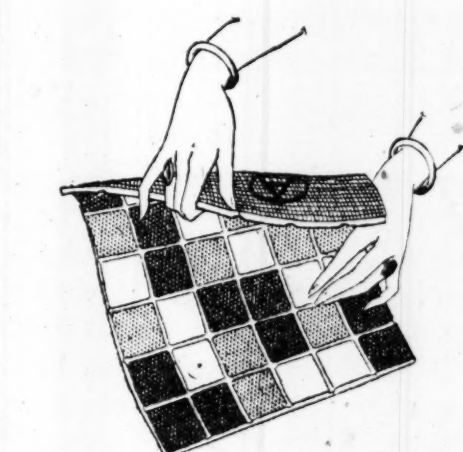

And reasonably priced for linoleum of such authentic design.

The First Linoleum with a Surface Modeled in Natural Relief

Architects say this new floor has "texture."

Offered in eleven pleasing patterns.

MARBLEIZED

A New Group of Armstrong Inlaid Patterns

Possibly you have seen linoleum in which the surface had a marble graining, but Armstrong's Marbleized Linoleum is truly inlaid. The marbling runs through the entire flooring to the heavy burlap back.

Armstrong's Inlaid Linoleum, cemented in place over builders' deadening felt, is literally good for a lifetime of hard wear. It never needs refinishing.

Kept waxed and polished, it makes a floor that needs little attention. A dust mop removes all surface accumulation.

PLAIN INLAID

More Serviceable Kind of Printed Linoleum

Each design of Armstrong's Printed Linoleum is the work of an expert colorist, and is printed, carefully printed, with pure linseed oil colors on the linoleum body. The body material is "genuine cork linoleum," tough and sturdy.

Armstrong's Printed Linoleum is backed with genuine burlap—hence its sturdy, tough, long-wearing quality. Only the best is good enough for Armstrong's.

Charges Against Holder Greeted With Silence, Says Fulton County Club Chief

Donehoo To Deliver Address in Gainesville in Behalf of Dr. Hardman This Morning.

"Less than 48 hours remain until the people's ballots for a gubernatorial candidate will fall into the boxes, and still John Holder has not said a word to explain away a single one of the many charges against his official record—charges for the most part that were lodged against him even before he qualified as a candidate," said Paul Donehoo, chairman of the Fulton County Hardman club, in a formal statement Monday.

In this statement, Mr. Donehoo, who will deliver a pro-Hardman address at Gainesville this evening, said: "It is almost unbelievable that Mr. Holder will have the nerve to go into some sort of a pretense at disposing of the charges against his official record and which, if true, prove his utter unfitness for the high office to which he aspires; and the best possible proof of their truthfulness lies in his silence regarding them. "Mr. Holder is not noted as a linguist, but when it comes to discussing his own public record he can keep silent in seven languages. He's a past master at dodging and at begging the issue, which is his record. He simply will not 'come clean' with the people, for whose votes he begs. At least, he has done so up to this good 'our, and if he makes any headway to that end between now and the voting he will have to work mighty fast. But John Holder is going into the election without having explained away the allegations of black spots on his record for the simple and very cogent reason that they are true.

Use of State Money.

"If it is not true, for instance, that he did not use $500 of the state's money to 'influence' legislation in behalf of his notorious 'midnight bill,' why has he not said so? If it is not true that he once paid his guano note with money that he 'borrowed' from the state and that he did not return until nine months later, why does he not say so? If it is not true that he put the East Point cafeteria in the highway department in the charge of a man who had been fired from a menial position in the capitol for gross inefficiency, why does John Holder not say so? If it is not true that he has been going into the various counties promising hundreds of miles of purely mythical highway mileage in return for votes, why does Mr. Holder not say so? If it is not true that within less than a year he has stood emphatically upon either side of the state bonds question, why does he not say so? If it is not true that practically every employee of the highway department, from the chief engineer down to the water boys, has an automobile that is maintained at state expense, and for which the person in charge of it needs it only in going to and from work, why does he not say so? If it is not true that he was convicted on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the mysterious death of his wife and given an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary. After the case was argued the court took the case under advisement.

ago it was found that if any indemnity bond had been given for that $21,000 John Holder was unable to produce it; and if it is not true that that $21,000 is forever lost to the state solely by reason of Mr. Holder's business incompetency or worse, why does the machine candidate for governor not say so?

"If it is not true that the highway department has money enough to pay only 18 cents on the dollar on contracts already let, why does the chairman of the highway commission not say so?

Cannot Answer Charges.

"He cannot now at this late day take care of these charges even if he were disposed to, because he hasn't time—and the charges I have here enumerated are only a few of many instances in which his official record has been belittled and which Mr. Holder would have to wade through one he might undertake to explain them away.

"And so, backed by the most insidious machine that ever sought to control the politics and the offices of Georgia, Mr. Holder evidently expects to take pot luck at the polls, leaving the people without his version of these damaging charges or any part of them.

"But I do not believe he expects to win, for if John Holder and his advisers are anything they are politicians of the first water, and, being politicians, they must know by this time that he has no more chance to win the governorship on a platform of evasion, vituperation and grasshopper gyrations than he would have a chance to kill a bear with a blow-gun."

COURT OF APPEALS HEARS WILBANKS PLEA

The court of appeals Monday heard arguments of attorneys seeking a new trial for J. C. Wilbanks, recently convicted on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the mysterious death of his wife and given an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary. After the case was argued the court took the case under advisement.

Late U. S. Senator Watson Denounced 'Holder-Brown Machine' Says Cartledge

President of Memorial Association Calls on Friends of Late Senator To Support Hardman.

An open letter to the public calling on friends of the late Senator Tom Watson to support Dr. L. G. Hardman in his race for the democratic nomination for governor, and declaring that Senator Watson, before his death, had denounced the "Holder-Brown" machine for waste and extravagance and the "failure of Holder and Brown to devote themselves to the best interests of the people of the state," written by James L. Cartledge, president of the Richmond county Watson Memorial association, was made public by campaign headquarters for Dr. Hardman Monday night.

The letter follows: "It appears to me rather peculiar at the close of the present campaign for governor that supporters of Mr. Holder should exert themselves so strenuously to drag the name of the late lamented Senator Watson into this fight. Mr. Watson was a powerful factor in politics for more than 25 years and his position because of this was sought for by every candidate for office in the state because of the fact his support meant the success of the candidate who secured it.

"Recognizing this, the friends of Mr. Holder are frantic in their efforts to show that Dr. Hardman was no friend of Senator Watson and numerous of the late senator's friends seem called upon the stress this fact. As a life long friend and supporter of Senator Watson and as chairman of the Richmond County Watson Memorial association, I think it but proper to call attention to the fact also that while there may not have been any special political friendship between Dr. Hardman and Senator Watson, it is well known to all friends of Senator Watson that the Holder-Brown machine was denounced by Senator Watson during the last year of his life, because of the waste and extravagance, and the failure of Mr. Brown and Mr. Holder to devote themselves to the best interests of the people of the state. The dragging of Mr. Watson's name into this campaign at this late hour will make no appeal to the friends of Mr. Watson, who know the facts, and will remember that there existed no political friendship between the Holder-Brown combination and Mr. Watson, and if any of the friends of the late Senator desire to follow what they feel would be the wish of Mr. Watson, I think they will give their undivided support to Dr. Hardman."

ATLANTANS URGED TO CUT FIRE LOSS

An earnest appeal is being made throughout the United States this week by members of the fire departments of every city and by city and state officials for observance of National Fire Prevention week, and Atlantans especially, through Governor Clifford Walker and Mayor Walter A. Sims, in proclamations issued Saturday, are urged to cooperate in the work.

Members of Atlanta's fire department, under the direction of Chief W. B. Cody, have placed posters in every section of the city showing some of the fire hazards that cause great conflagrations.

Insurance companies, through much research work during the past few years, have shown that fire losses in America are ten times as great proportionately as in Europe and a large part of the difference is due to more solid construction of European buildings. In practically every European country more care against fires is taken and laws eliminating fire hazards are rigidly enforced.

The annual loss from fires in the United States is estimated at over $500,000,000 and the loss per capita was $8.48 as compared with $2. in Europe.

This excessive waste can be overcome by maintaining better care of property, making repairs when needed and not allowing buildings to become dilapidated and ready to fall down.

Basements where waste paper and trash is stored should be cleaned out, constantly and kept in order and old furnaces should be looked after before the winter fires are started, the fire authorities say.

REV. ARTHUR COPELAND OF NEW YORK PASSES

News of the death of the Rev. Arthur Copeland, father of Mrs. Thomas W. Connally, and one of the outstanding clergymen of the Methodist Episcopal church in New York state, who died Friday at his home in Auburn, N. Y., has been received in Atlanta.

A native of Clarendon, N. Y., Rev. Copeland received his early education at Genesee Wesleyan seminary and at Cazenovia seminary and then graduated from Syracuse university in 1884. In June, 1911, Rev. Copeland was appointed chaplain of Auburn state prison, at Auburn, N. Y., by Governor Dix, a post he held until his death last Friday. He was one of the best known prison reform workers in the United States. Rev. Copeland was a well-known lecturer and noted author. In the summer of 1924 he was chosen as the outstanding public lecturer of New York state, his subject being "Voices from Behind Prison Walls."

PIONEER SCHOOL BOYS HOLD DANCE TONIGHT

The old "fiddle and bow" will be tuned up at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Henry Grady hotel for the old-fashioned dance of the Pioneer School Boys' club.

The stately lancers, polka, waltz and Virginia reel will bring back old days to members of the club and their guests—days when jazz and moaning saxophones were unknown on ballroom floors. Earl Johnson will lead an old-fashioned orchestra in furnishing music for the occasion.

Prior to the dancing supper will be served the guests, many of whom are expected from out-of-town and out of the state. Great interest is being shown in the program, and a large attendance is expected. Miss Carolyn Spaulding, as soloist, will sing several old-time tunes.

DISABLED AIRPLANE, REPAIRED, LEAVES

Its disabled motor replaced with a new one, an army airplane which was forced down recently near Marietta, while carrying typhoid vaccine to the storm zone in Florida, made a successful take off Monday afternoon in spite of the difficult field, and headed for Maxwell field, Alabama.

Captain H. W. Cook, who was forced to change plans in order to complete his trip to Florida with the serum, will meet the re-motored plane at Maxwell field and will fly it back to quarters at Indianapolis, Ind. The airplane was forced down when an oil line leaked caused the bearings to burn out.

CANINE GANG SLAIN BY POLICE IN HARD FIGHT WITH CLUBS

Call Officers John Bowman and Jack Malcolm were attacked Monday by a group of nine dogs, which had been terrorizing a neighborhood on Hunter street, where frightened residents called for police aid.

The officers brought with them a sawed-off shotgun and four shells. With each shot they killed one of the dogs, but this left five dogs, which apparently sensed the officers' lack of ammunition and attacked, leaping at the throats of the police. Malcolm seized a club, while Bowman brandished an iron pipe, and armed in this fashion they put to death the other five dogs after a hard fight, the officers say.

Ed Williams, 28, of 110 Luckie street, serving a 30-day sentence on the chain gang for being drunk and disorderly, made good his escape late Saturday, when he broke away from his guard, George Tumlin, by leaping off the moving city construction truck on North Boulevard, near Ponce de Leon avenue, according to a report made known Monday. Williams, at the time of his escape, had completed all but 18 days of the 30-day sentence, which he chose as the alternative to a $25 fine imposed upon him by Recorder A. W. Callaway, on September 20.

Holder, In Decatur Speech, Attack Governor and Heads Of Departments Of State ## Highway Chairman Says He Favors Educational Survey—Reiterates Opposition to Road Bonds.

In a fierce attack on Dr. L. G. Hardman, his opponent for governor, and on Governor Clifford Walker, whom he characterized as Dr. Hardman's "chief backer," John N. Holder, candidate for governor, delivered one of the final speeches of his campaign at Decatur Monday night before a crowd that filled the DeKalb county courthouse to capacity.

Holder ridiculed what he termed "the humanitarianism" of his opponent, declaring that the two candidates were both born and reared in Jackson county and the people of that county showed by their vote what they thought of Hardman's "humanitarianism" in the first primary when they gave Holder a majority over his rival. He denied that he was connected with any political machine of any kind, but said Hardman is the candidate of the "Walker machine," which he said was "the most pernicious political machine ever built in Georgia."

"Election of Dr. Hardman for governor simply means four more years of Walkerism," Holder declared. "Clifford Walker is using his governor's office today, he is using the state's funds today for political purposes."

Holder said he was not connected with any political machine of any kind, but said Hardman is the candidate of the "Walker machine," which he said was "the most pernicious political machine ever built in Georgia."

Producing a letter he said was written by the governor to an insurance man in a south Georgia city, Holder charged that this letter showed that Governor Walker was trying to enlist the influence of insurance men who hope to get business from the state.

"We've got the goods on Cliffe this time," Holder said and read the letter. According to this letter Governor Walker suggested that the insurance men use their automobiles to take people to the polls on election day to vote for Hardman.

Expressing himself as standing "unequivocally opposed" to a state bond issue for road purposes or any other purposes except those provided by the constitution, Holder said Hardman had no position on bonds.

"Dr. Hardman does not know where he stands on the bond issue," he said.

"Nobody else does, either," someone shouted in the audience and there was general laughter.

Bond Question.

"Dr. Hardman said in Gainesville he would favor a sufficient amount of bonds to build a road to every rural school and church in the state," Holder said. "Hardman said at Gainesville he favored a $15,000,000 bond issue. In another speech he said he favored a reasonable bond issue. At Statesboro he said he did not know how he stood on bonds, but he wanted a good man in the governor's chair to spend the bond money. I don't know whether I am a good man or not. I will leave it to Dr. Hardman. He thought I was good enough man to offer to resign as chairman of the highway commission, provided I would not run for governor."

Holder said he advocated an educational survey for Georgia and declared that the time such survey was completed the state would have money enough to carry out an educational improvement program. He said he favored aid for the agricultural interests of the state and said the chief need of the farmers now is a market for their products.

"If I am elected governor I will call a conference of the governors of the southern and western states and ask them to demand of congress that a system of fair markets be established for the farming interests of this country," he said.

High Department Heads.

Holder declared he favored a reorganization of the state agricultural department. He said he would also favor the revision of the banking laws of the state and would demand the removal of T. R. Bennett as superintendent of banks. He said that Bennett, John Vandiver, state revenue commissioner, Peter S. Twitty, state game and fish commissioner and James Dozier, state tax commissioner, formed a part of "the Walker machine" and were now out working for Hardman. Holder denounced "scalp hunters" attacks he said were made on him by Hardman, George Carswell and J. O. Wood.

"Carswell and Wood were eliminated by the people and I don't believe the people will approve of their methods in this runover race," Holder said. "One of them is trying to hold my feet and the other my arms, while Doc Hardman scratches me in the face."

Holder denied that he had any political connection with J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, declaring that Brown had opposed him for speaker of the house of representatives and had opposed him in other races.

Introduced by Davis.

"But Dr. Hardman always has been on friendly terms with Brown," Holder said. "Before the election he asked Brown to visit him at his farm at Nacoochee. While up there spending the day I don't believe they spent all their time talking about the weather. Hardman gave Brown a blooded calf worth $250. Well, I never have tried to get Brown to support me by giving him a bull's head."

William Schley Howard presided as chairman.

"I've known John Holder for 30 years," he said. "As a private citizen and as a public servant he has always been loyal and faithful. He has been loyal and faithful to the people of this state. He is today standing a stone wall between the people of this state and a bond issue."

Representative John C. Davis, of DeKalb county, introduced the speaker in a short speech.

CAN'T ENFORCE DRY LAW SAYS SIBLEY

Commerce U. D. C. Chapter Says Hardman Aided Vets

The national prohibition law will never be absolutely enforced and only substantially so when the mass of the people become total abstainers.

This declaration was made Monday by Judge Samuel H. Sibley in his charge to the new federal grand jury. Judge Sibley pointed out that no law is enforced perfectly.

"Atlanta offers the biggest problem in the enforcement of the dry law in the northern district of Georgia," Judge Sibley declared. "The demand for whisky is here—moonshiners and liquor runners aren't in the business for fun. People here, as in other cities, want whisky and are willing to pay for it."

Judge Sibley suggested that patrols be established on the main roads leading into Fulton county and that every car be inspected as one means of eliminating to an extent liquor running.

Systematic Search.

"The highways offer a trying situation," he said. "At times cars are stopped just on suspicion, shootings occur, and clashes after reckless whisky runners result in deaths and accidents and innocent persons are involved."

"A good man in the governor's chair to the highway problem and I am offering to you gentlemen an embryonic plan which has occurred to me."

"Have a regular and systematic search of cars made at all bridges crossing the Chattahoochee river and at other points where the highways cross to the Fulton county line on their way to Atlanta. A person driving up to a bridge and seeing a gate across it would know that the government was to make inquiries and a search of the car if necessary."

No Law Enforced.

"You may say that this plan of establishing inspection posts at strategic entrances to Atlanta would only force the bootleggers off the main highway. If it did this and they were forced to use the byways their cars would attract more attention and would be more easily spotted."

"I have often been asked whether I think the prohibition law can be enforced. In my opinion, prohibition will never be absolutely enforced. That is, enforced perfectly. In fact, no law is enforced perfectly. It is foolish to expect perfect enforcement of this law or any other that deals with the gratification of a personal desire which can be satisfied in private."

"As to its substantial enforcement this will come when, and only when and only where, the mass of the people decide they want it and get to the point where they will report and testify as to violations. It will never be enforced where the people don't want it."

Cleveland, Ohio, October 4.—John J. Stanley, president of the Cleveland Railway company and nationally known street railway executive, died suddenly here tonight.

Stanley was addressing the executive committee of the American Electric Railway association in session here, when he became ill. Finishing his speech quickly he retired from the platform and died within a few minutes.

Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Builds Up Weight in Three Weeks

This new combination of yeast vitamins with vegetable iron, increases the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamins that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich source of iron, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast" which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized becomes just as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been underweight—or how much underweight you are, "ironized yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back.

Sold by druggists, at $1.00 for a large 60-tablet package, or sent direct from laboratory on receipt of price. Ironized Yeast Co., Desk 200, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Commerce U. D. C. Chapter Says Hardman Aided Vets

Commerce, Ga., October 4.—(Special.)—Declaring that Dr. L. G. Hardman had the pension law of Georgia amended whereby Confederate soldiers and widows had been greatly aided in obtaining pensions, the following message to the members of the Daughters of the Confederacy of Georgia was issued today by Stuart chapter of this city:

"To the Daughters of the Confederacy: It is not ethical, according to the foundation principles, for a U. D. C. chapter to endorse a candidate for political office; nevertheless, a sister chapter of our own county has violated these principles by endorsing a candidate in the present campaign."

"We, officers of the J. E. B. Stuart chapter, No. 861, of Commerce, Ga., wish to present some reasons why we believe the members of chapters in the state should support Dr. L. G. Hardman, who we know to be a clean, high-toned, Christian gentleman, whose character is above reproach."

"Commerce chapter has a membership of 60. They are practically unanimous in supporting Dr. Hardman."

"He is and has been in the past, a true friend to the pensioners of Georgia. During the session of the legislature of 1900, Dr. Hardman sponsored and had passed the constitutional amendments allowing pensions to all Confederate soldiers and widows of same who could prove their service in the C. S. A. This amendment was ratified in the general election in 1910, and since that date veterans and widows have received more than $3,000,000. A Confederate veteran, G. L. Carson, who served four years in the war in company E, Sixteenth Georgia (Morgan's) cavalry, spent several days with Dr. Hardman at his request in securing passage of this bill."

"It gives us pleasure to bear testimony to the worth and value of Dr. Hardman's public and private life in Commerce and community. He has ever been at the forefront in working for the interest of his own section and also the interests of the people of all sections of Georgia."

"His life as it is known by his home people, is above stooping to little things, and is constructive in every sphere of life."

"Mrs. Hardman's services in our chapter have been invaluable, always ready to make any personal sacrifice for the interest of our people."

"Now, widows and daughters, let us be loyal to the friend who has been so loyal to the cause for which we stand, and show our appreciation and gratitude on October 6."

TINNEY'S CONDITION DECIDEDLY WORSE

He remained unconscious. Tinney collapsed here Friday night after playing in "Vanities." His family in New York was notified of his true condition.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

AUTO SHOW AT FAIR ONE OF BIG FEATURES

New developments in the automotive industry were strikingly in evidence Monday at the opening of the automobile show in the automobile exposition building at the Southeastern fair at Lakewood park.

Nearly 100 different models were on display in the gaily decorated exhibition hall, many of them in operation to demonstrate novel inventions embodied in them to increase speed, economy or durability.

Twelve of the leading makes of automobiles are on exhibition. Demonstrators in charge of exhibits were busily engaged throughout the opening day in outlining to visitors the fine points of development and improvement embodied in the new models, new short cuts to gasoline economy, new assurances of braking efficiency, new developments for increasing speed without sacrificing power or economy or durability.

The models are all such as might well send a thrill through the heart of the motorist, beauty, strength and speed being stamped into every stream line, every curve and recess in the models.

More than $100,000 worth of fine automobiles are included in the exhibit, with a price range wide enough to fit the purse of every visitor who has the fifty cents it costs to get into the fair grounds, whether laborer or millionaire.

The show is more complete and is more interesting than last year's show and the opening day attendance was nearly twice as large, officials said.

The automobile show occupies a more favorable location, from the exhibitors' viewpoint, this year than ever before as the automobile building has been transformed into one of the liveliest units in the entire fair.

Billions Wasted Yearly, Workers' Body Declares

These billion dollars a year is the price which southern farmers pay to the god of waste," declared the executive committee of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers which met here Monday to lay plans for their annual meeting to be held at the Biltmore hotel on February 2, 3 and 4 of next year.

How to eliminate this tremendous drain of preventable economic losses from the earnings of southern agriculture through the co-ordination of agriculture, industry and commerce will be the main theme of the great meeting which will call together hundreds of representatives from southern agricultural institutions, representatives of the United States department of agriculture at Washington and many industrial and commercial leaders of the south.

Dr. Andrew M. Soule, of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, president of the association, will outline the plans to be followed in the elimination of waste in southern agriculture. Dean Thomas Cooper, of the University of Kentucky, will lead the discussions on the second day of the meeting, which deal with the elimination of waste from lack of efficient contact with scientific investigations and research.

President H. A. Morgan, of the University of Tennessee, will have charge of the proceedings on the third day and will outline the best methods of getting the results of economic research in the state systems of education in the south.

There are nine sections of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers and each section will deal with a particular phase of the subject in the elimination of waste as it affects agronomy, animal husbandry, dairying, entomology, horticulture, pathology, agricultural economics, agricultural engineering, and home economics.

The members of the executive committee meeting with President Soule to lay plans for the winter meeting of the association were President H. A. Morgan, of the University of Tennessee; Dr. W. E. Hinds, of the University of South Carolina, and Director J. N. Harper, of the French Potash society.

The first of a series of forum meetings to be given by the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking—educational section of the American Bankers association—will be held Wednesday night at the Daffodil tea room.

W. C. Wardlaw, vice president Trust Company of Georgia, will be principal speaker, and will entertain 50 or more junior bankers with an account of his trip around the world, including in his talk some interesting facts concerning economic conditions in foreign countries.

Eugene F. Willis, of the Atlanta & Lower National bank, chairman of the Atlanta chapter's forum committee, has announced plans for regular monthly forum meetings during the 1926-27 season of local chapter activities, the purpose of these forums being to meet the need of senior members of banks, sustaining members and institute graduates by giving opportunities for more advanced research in banking finance and kindred subjects, and also for retaining the interest of the older members in the chapter from which they were graduated.

Mr. Wardlaw's talk will be followed by open discussion or debate among the members. Mr. Willis will preside.

Governor Walker Barter State's Fire Insurance Premium to Get Votes for Dr. Hardman

Wants To Be Informed What Agents Are Furnishing Cars Or Otherwise Bringing The Full Hardman Votes To The Polls

Proof positive that the Walker, Bennett, Hardman Machine is not only working feverishly to stem the rising tide of votes, but is lowering the dignity of the Governor's office, and insulting the self-respecting fire insurance agents of Georgia is shown in the following letter of the Governor and the reply thereto.

GOVERNOR WALKER'S LETTER TO MR. W. J. FUTRAL

EXECUTIVE OFFICES
State Capitol
Atlanta, Georgia

October 2nd, 1926.

Mr. W. J. Futral, Cashier,
Bank of Glenwood,
Glenwood, Ga.

Dear Mr. Futral: All of the State Fire Insurance expires January 7th. It was written for five years by political friends of Governor Hardwick. It is fair that those who have been active friends of this administration now share the renewals.

My friends are resenting the vicious attacks being made on me by Candidate Holder by furnishing cars and otherwise bringing the full Hardman vote to the polls on Wednesday.

Will you kindly send me a list of those agents who prove their loyalty by thus actively helping to vindicate our administration?

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) CLIFFORD WALKER.

MR. FUTRAL TELLS WHAT HE THINKS OF THE GOVERNOR

Glenwood, Ga.
October 4, 1926.

Hon. Clifford Walker,
Governor, State Capitol,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: I have your letter of October 2 and carefully noted same. In reply, wish to say that I am very much surprised at the tone of your letter, which I understand intimates you would be willing to divide state insurance with all agents who would use their cars in hauling voters to polls Wednesday for Dr. Hardman.

Please allow me to inform you that Glenwood has only two insurance agents, myself and one other, Mr. C. C. Barnhill, who I take to be a perfect gentleman, and while I am perfectly willing to do anything for you that is honest, honorable and right, I consider myself far above making my fellow agent a proposition as outlined in your letter.

Allow me to say further that I am a poor man, hard run for business, and a friend of John N. Holder, but if he were in position to offer me the entire amount of state insurance that is to be rewritten January 7, I would immediately write him as I am writing you.

Trusting I have made myself so plain that should you ever consider writing me along similar lines, you may refresh your memory and save the state that small expense.

(Signed)

W. J. FUTRAL.

Holder Does Not Deny Using State's Mailing Lists, Chamlee Declares

Manager for Hardman
Points Out That No Denial
Has Been Made on Serious Charge.

"John N. Holder has not denied, either in public addresses or through the press, that he used in his private political campaign the mailing list and mailing machinery of the state agricultural department compiled at great expense to Georgia for the state's exclusive use," a statement made public late Monday by A. S. Chamlee, campaign manager for Dr. L. G. Hardman, said.

"This charge was made in daily papers of Saturday, and yet Mr. Holder has not denied that he used state property for his private purposes," Mr. Chamlee said. "Not a single newspaper has quoted him as denying this in a single speech he has delivered, and Holder's campaign managers refuse even to refer to it. Is that not proof, if further proof be needed, that John Holder still is linked with the infamous Holder-Brown machine that has saddled Georgia for years with its powerful highway department bludgeon?"

Asked About Money.

Mr. Holder is also asked a series of questions concerning large sums of money by Mr. Chamlee.

Particular stress is laid in the Chamlee statement on the alleged loss of $20,000 in state highway funds which Mr. Holder is charged with having placed on deposit in a Blairsville bank which recently failed.

The statement charges that preference is given negroes in positions in the highway department, conditions at the state quarry at Oglethorpe being cited.

Mr. Holder is asked to explain why the money was placed in the bank, and why it was not protected. The statement asks: "Isn't it a fact that the president of that bank is your supporter?"

Other matters about which questions are asked include a large sum said to have been given Holder on the eve of adjournment of last year's session of the legislature and which Holder is accused of spending in obtaining passage of the now famous "midnight road bill."

Mr. Holder also is asked "whether it was $500 or $5,000 you borrowed from the state highway funds to pay your personal note for gun?"

Text of Statement.

Mr. Chamlee's statement, in full, follows:

"Mr. Holder, why did you place $20,000 of state highway funds in the bank at Blairsville, Ga., which recently failed? Isn't it true this deposit was not withdrawn of last year's session of the legislature and which Holder was not a state depository? Are you a stockholder in this bank? Isn't it a fact that the president of the bank is your supporter?"

"Why are you using the mailing list of the agricultural department, which cost the taxpayers of Georgia $125,000?"

HOLDER ATTACKS CAPITOL OFFICERS

Gainesville, Ga., October 4.—(Special.)—Cliff Walker and the generals of his statehouse machine, Tom Bennett, Jim Dozier, Pete Twitty and John Vandiver, have got the old machine running at high speed," declared John N. Holder, candidate for governor, in his address here Monday to the voters of Hall and surrounding counties.

"From every direction and every section of the state comes news of their activities. It appears that the executive offices, the banking department offices, the revenue department offices, the tax department offices, the game and fish department offices and others have, for the present, set aside all state business and are feverishly working in behalf of my opponent, Dr. Lamarine G. Hardman.

Stenographers are being overworked, the telephone wires are being overburdened and more trading is going on in the state capital now than can be found in a gypsy camp.

"Governor Walker and his staff in the executive offices are sending out thousands of letters to appointees and others urging support for Dr. Hardman. These letters bear the great seal of Georgia. The stationery, the stamps and the stenographers' salaries are paid for out of the people's tax money. In reality a half dozen of the great and noblest of the state government have, to all intents and purposes, been converted into branches of the Hardman campaign headquarters.

"I warn you not to be deceived by smoke screens, for you will look behind the smoke screens you will find that certain selfish interests are actively stirring for a tremendous state bond issue, and that Cliff Walker's statehouse machine is working desperately to save itself and the jobs of its members.

Quits Quoted.

"The Sunday newspapers carried several cards and advertisements signed with the name of Dr. Hardman. They bore the name of Jacob but they were undoubtedly written by the hand of Esau. One of these statements sought by the skillful employment of words and phrases to make it appear that Dr. Hardman had and devoted to the state a bond issue, and that Cliff Walker's statehouse machine is working desperately to save itself and the jobs of its members.

Holder's Stand.

"Dr. Hardman said he went to Washington to the unveiling of the statue of Dr. Long in the hall of fame and that he paid his own expenses. Now, now what do you think of that for philanthropy? He included in his list a gift which his brother made to Mercer university.

"Cliff Walker said he was considering me and bragging on himself long enough to tell the people where he stands on the great issues of this campaign. It would not be necessary for me to devote so much time to exposing him and the crowd which is backing him.

"I want you to know where I stand.

"I oppose a state bond issue for any purpose.

"I oppose any increase of taxes.

"I oppose calling the legislature in extraordinary session except in case of some grave emergency.

"I oppose the state departments at the capital being organized into a political machine by the governor.

"I favor a reorganization of the agricultural department so that the capital being organized into a political machine by the governor.

"I favor amendments to the laws creating the state highway department so that with the increased revenue coming available for highway construction Georgia can build a great and coordinated system of improved highways.

"I favor a survey of the state's educational system so that we may know our needs and so that Georgia may be given an educational system on a par with those in the most progressive states.

"I favor such amendments to the state banking laws as will give every depositor the maximum protection to his deposits and stockholders in our state banks, and I favor a complete change of administration in the banking department."

WELLS' SUICIDE LAID TO FINANCIAL WORRY

Financial worries are believed to have been responsible for the fit of despondency in which J. H. Wells, 44, of 1416 Gault avenue, early Monday morning shot and killed himself in the yard of his home, using a single barrel shotgun.

T. M. Whithy, of 1420 Gault avenue, Wells' brother-in-law, found the body clad in sleeping garments, lying under a tree.

Investigators found a note to Mrs. Maggie Wells, widow of the dead man, in one of his pockets. The message said: "I will steal no more of your money. You are the cause of this, you can't rear on me anymore." Police said that the man evidently discharged the shotgun by pushing the trigger with a toe. One of the neighbors reported having heard a gun shot about 9:30 o'clock Sunday night, but paid no attention to it.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Wells is survived by a daughter, Miss Edna Wells, and two sons, William and Thomas Wells. The body is at the funeral home of J. Austin Dillon company pending funeral arrangements.

LEGATION DOUBTS
SCREEN DEBUT OF QUEEN MARIE

Washington, October 4.—The Rumanian legation has taken cognizance of reports regarding compensation which Queen Marie is reported to have been offered for movie appearances on her forthcoming American tour.

The following statement was issued at the legation today:

"Under the liberties guaranteed to every citizen of two countries by their constitutions, nobody can be prevented from writing anything or to anybody one desires.

"That certain film company who was reported to have made her majesty, the queen, an offer of $25,000 for her majesty's appearance before the cameras, is a long way from the making of an offer to its acceptance. This legation has no knowledge whatever of her majesty's alleged desire to swell her already fund of either her majesty or of the legation."

The official denial today was inspired by a Los Angeles dispatch which said the offer of $25,000 had been made to the queen on condition she would enact the role of the queen in a picture, "Resurrection," and required only one day's appearance.

"My Life Story" Written by Rudolph Valentino

SIST INSTALLMENT.
(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution.)
The Coliseum was still occupied by these marbles and bronzes up to the medieval times. Then the popes decided the Coliseum was a pagan monument, and that it was worthy of the church to take away all of the bronzes, etc. These statues and adornment were, in consequence, removed and made into church bells.

Then most of the marble statues were carried away like those around the Castello San Angelo. The bronzes were used down and made into cannon balls. Done in the name of Christianity because they were pagan monuments. (As though they were obscene!)

There is a story told in connection with this vandalism. Rome has been invaded many times, as everyone knows, by Goths, Visigoths, Huns and so on, and sacked by them. And it is said that this particular order was given to take all the beautiful marbles from the Coliseum under the popes, who happened to belong to the Barberini family. By a play on words the Italians used to say, "What the Barbieri (the barbers) did not do in Rome, the Barberini did."

Dedicated to Martyrs.

In the last century, however, as we all know, too, Bonaparte dedicated the Coliseum to the memory of the early Christians who here suffered martyrdom, and as a result further spoliation was prevented. In 1805 and in 1828 two great buttresses were erected to support the building.

Fassini was relating all of these stories some had known and forgotten, others we never knew at all, as we stood there, heads bared, bathed in the moonlight that seemed somehow to belong only to the Coliseum this night and to have no part with the rest of the world at all.

Fassini also showed us part of the floor that has been built in. It seems that in the fifteenth century two families were fighting. One of these families retired into the Coliseum, fortified it and stayed there during the fight. I forget the name exactly, but I think he said the Orsini family. You can still see where they made an opening for water. Of course they were routed out, and the government later tried to repair the ravages they had made in the original pavement.

Fassini also showed us the passage through which the emperor was wont to come down from his palace, which was further away on the Palatine hill, so that no one could get at him and he could enter in privacy his imperial box.

Fassini asked one of the guards if we could see the cells of the prisoners. He said, very definitely, "No."

It seems that up to a hundred years ago the Coliseum was a very dangerous place to come at night. Not only because of the lions and the gladiators, but because of the thieves and assassins, highwaymen and other criminals who hid there, and they had murder on top of murder every week.

Watchmen are posted there now, by day and by night, not so much because of the criminals, for they are well guarded, but because of the would-be suicides who select the Coliseum as the fitting place to bid a dramatic farewell to a life that has become unendurable. It is comically tragic like New York's selection of the Brooklyn bridge or the East river as jumping-off places.

Fascination of Death.

I asked the guard what he thought the fascination of death was, and he said that he didn't know; there was some peculiarity about it.

I don't know either, but somehow it doesn't seem to me to be so very peculiar. If one, in Rome, sought death by one's own hand, a kind of instinct would lead him to the Coliseum, where so many suffering deaths have taken place. It is the place where blood has been spilled. Perhaps that suffering blood cries out and is assuaged only by the spilling of new blood.

I must close for tonight, much as I shudder at leaving myself, even on the pages of my diary, alone in the Coliseum all through the night—brooding over stains that are new and stains that are old.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Jolice Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to take it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—(adv.)

He Can't Be Defeated

That is the slogan in 161 counties in Georgia today of HARDMAN SUPPORTERS. They are confident that he will sweep the state, Wednesday, October 6th, with one of the largest majorities ever known in Georgia politics. His friends are going to the polls to make the victory doubly certain, and to be absolutely safe there will be a corps of Hardman workers in every precinct in every county in the state. But let every Hardman supporter vote. Play safe. Make the victory a landslide.

Mr. Holder has not denied that he used the state machinery to further his campaign. He has not denied using men employed in the agricultural department. He has not denied using men employed in the highway department to spread Holder propaganda. He has not denied he prefers negro engineers, cranemen and derrick men at the state quarry at Oglethorpe. He has not denied that he used negro plasterers at East Point on an 8-hour day at $1.25 an hour when he compelled white carpenters to work 9 hours for 80 cents an hour.

Mr. Holder has not proved a single charge he has hurled against Dr. Hardman. He has used every known method of dirty politics to vilify one of Georgia's most distinguished citizens, attacking his private life, but Dr. Hardman emerges from all of this vilification and abuse just as clean as before he entered the race.

Friends of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson throughout the state have resented Holder dragging Mr. Watson's name in the campaign when the Jeffersonian of September 7, 1916 said: "Dr. Hardman in my opinion is above dishonest trifling issues and will come out of the race with honor unstained."

By DR. ELLIOTT SHORING, NOTED HISTORIAN

CORTEZ WAS A JAUNTY, SELF-ASSURED, CHESTY YOUNG MAN, POSSESSING LITTLE MONEY, BUT FINE HEALTH, GOOD LOOKS, ABUNDANT WIT, AN AUDACIOUS MANNER, AND A GREAT FLOW OF GOOD SPIRITS. SHORTLY AFTER LANDING IN SANTO DOMINGO HE JAUNTILY MADE HIS WAY TO THE HOUSE OF THE GOVERNOR, OVANDO, WHO KNEW HIM AND HIS FAMILY IN SPAIN.

OVANDO WAS AWAY PUTTING DOWN AN INDIAN REBELLION. HUNTING INDIANS WITH BLOOD HOUNDS WAS A FAVORITE PASTIME OF OVANDO, FOR HE WAS PERHAPS THE MOST CRUEL AND BLOODTHIRSTY OF ALL THE GOVERNORS SENT OUT FROM SPAIN. AFTER HANGING THE LAST OF THE INDIAN CHIEFS KILLING MANY OF THE INDIANS AND CUTTING THE HANDS OFF OTHERS, OVANDO RETURNED.

OVANDO WELCOMED YOUNG CORTEZ AND GRANTED HIS MODEST REQUEST WHICH WAS FOR AN ESTATE IN THE GOLD REGION AND A LICENSE TO MINE THE PRECIOUS METAL, WITH A BODY OF INDIAN LABORERS—PRACTICALLY SLAVES—TO WORK THE LAND.

DIEGO VELASQUEZ WAS ONE OF OVANDO'S MOST ENERGETIC LIEUTENANTS AND IN 1504 FOUNDED THE TOWN OF AZUA. YOUNG CORTEZ, NOW NINETEEN, SETTLED IN THIS TOWN.

Woman's Club Will Sponsor Spanish and French Classes

The Spanish classes sponsored by the applied education department of the Atlanta Woman's club, with Mrs. Tom Brooke, chairman, have been arranged to accommodate business men, schoolteachers, students and matrons at a cost of $6 for twelve lessons, with Tuesday evenings, Thursday mornings and Friday afternoons named for class meetings.

To meet at Mrs. Campbell's. Mrs. J. E. Campbell will instruct the classes, the first one to be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at her home, 347 East Fourth street. Thursday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, and Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the classes will be held at the Atlanta Woman's club on Peachtree street.

This course, which embraces history and literature as well as spoken Spanish, is to be given in 12 lessons, and two lessons a week can be taken if desired. For enrollment call Mrs. Campbell, Hemlock 7390.

Mrs. Campbell, who before her marriage was Miss Angela Palomo, of Spain, arrived in the United States in 1916 to teach at Wellesley college. She is a graduate of Miss Gulick's school in Spain, an American institution which has been one of the greatest contributors to the education of the women of Spain; also of the Institute del Carilental, Cienfuegos, Madrid, with a B. A. degree, and later she received her master's degree at Columbia university, New York city.

In addition to teaching beginners and advanced classes in practical Spanish for business purposes, Mrs. Campbell will offer Atlanta an opportunity to get acquainted with the language, literature, the culture and customs of Spain, and her arts and national life. Mademoiselle Grolaud, who is instructor for the French class this winter, is well known in Atlanta and for the past five years has been engaged in teaching French here. In addition to her kindergarten and primary work, she has several private adult classes. She is unusually well qualified for this work, being a native Parisian and having made the teaching of the French language a study. Even before coming to America, she studied the best methods of teaching in Scotland and she gained more experience as interpreter for the American forces during the world war. Since the opportunity to study under such a competent instructor has been afforded at a very nominal sum, the class will probably be very large. The cost of the course will be $6 for 12 lessons, one lesson a week, beginning Wednesday, October 6, at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse. For further information and registration, call Mrs. George S. Verdelman, Hemlock 0654-J.

Few women of today have had the wonderful opportunities of knowing the important personages of the world that the princess has had since her infancy in the white house, where she was born; then her life in Vienna, where her father was minister to Austria-Hungary, where she made her debut.

The lectures will be followed by a luncheon when the opportunity of meeting and talking to the princess will be given to members.

After frying with Snowdrift strain it to remove any crumbs. Then put it away for the next time you need a frying fat. Snowdrift will not absorb the odor or flavor of any food that you cook in it. And as long as it lasts it will retain that same delicate flavor it had when you opened the can.

HOW THE PILGRIM'S MOTHER Kept Her Family in Good Health

A statue to the Pilgrim Mother was recently unveiled at Plymouth Rock, Mass.

Through her we know every pioneer woman who endured privation and hardships that a nation might live. She is a mother to shoulder with her husband she built a home in the wilderness and reared her sturdy sons and daughters. She cooked and sewed. She spun and wove for her family. When they were ill, she brewed remedies from roots and herbs—such roots and herbs as are now used in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Massachusetts woman writes: "I was all run-down, with no ambition. I was tired all the time. Some times I would be in bed two or three days at a time, and the doctor would have to give me something to quiet me. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have had wonderful results from it. I felt better after taking the second bottle, and I am never without it in the house now. I have told lots of people about it, and they say it helps them, too."—Mrs. J. W. Critchett, 2 Hammond Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Black Butterflies

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Maxwell, the wealthiest young woman in Grandon, brings upon herself the censure of the town by her association with the Black Butterflies, a club made up of social outcasts. Her father, David Maxwell, a prominent attorney, is forced to take on a champion. Dorinda tells him she will not give up the freedom that was denied her during her father's lifetime. Her father, David Maxwell, a prominent attorney, is forced to take on a champion. Dorinda tells him she will not give up the freedom that was denied her during her father's lifetime.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

A STRANGE COURTSHIP BEGINS.

Dorinda met Goddard's look with one which gave him a momentary glimpse of another and very different personality. It was as if for the first time she herself fully realized to what her plan committed her, and the look was so strange that he found himself blinking under it. Here was some one who would keep a man guessing—for an instant an inner panic seized him—a reflection, perhaps, of hers—and he would have given all he had to recall his promise. Then, in the eyes that still steadily held his, he saw something that touched him.

"I'm trusting you a lot," she brought out, "though I haven't touched on that at all. But you understand, don't you?" "Of course I understand—all of it," he said gently. "It's one of the things that make this scheme possible. Now that everything is settled," he ended in a different tone, "I'll say good-night, and drop in tomorrow—if you want me."

That inner panic, he had discovered, still held him, and every instant urged him to get away—not from his promise, but from her and from her house. She seemed to understand—or perhaps she, too, was glad to get away. But she was cooler now than he was.

"I don't know whether it interests you," she told him as she rose; "but there isn't any one else I could trust so much. That's why I said it was my last chance."

He held out his hand. "I will do my best for you, kind employer. Now I'm off. If it's all the same to you, I'd rather not talk about the plan any more till my ideas have shaken down a little."

"But it's settled," she said anxiously. "Good-night, then, and thank you."

She put her hand in his. Two minutes later she heard the front door snap shut as he left the house. The next day Dorinda admitted to her soul that her future husband was at least familiar with the first moves of the courting game, and the discovery was a relief. Before noon a box of chrysanthemums was brought to her by the appreciative Annie, with Mr. Goddard's card nestled among the gorgeous blossoms, as if it belonged there. For Annie's attentive ears and avid eyes, Dorinda exclaimed about the flowers, and hung over them in what appeared to be a happy maiden reverie. Also, she tore up a list of suggestions she had prepared for Goddard's guidance, and tried to fix her mind on higher things. The recovery, however, persisted in dwelling on the practical detail that she must put the young man on salary at once and allow him an expense account as well. She realized that the income of a thirty-five or forty-dollar-a-week clerk would not run to many boxes of chrysanthemums. Moreover, there would be the matter of downtown luncheons and dinners, theater and concert tickets, chocolates and the like.

When she mentioned this later in the day, during his call at tea time, Goddard developed a streak of obstinacy. "The income begins with the marriage begins," he said shortly. "And if you talk any more about expense accounts, I'll bolt. Great Scott, a man has to have some say about this game," he added, irritably—and immediately apologized. "But I mean it," he persisted, and she realized that he did.

The discovery both irritated and pleased her. Why should he swallow the camel of the whole proposition and strain at such a little gnat as an expense account? Besides, his attitude would handicap her. She could not demand half as much social attention from him, knowing that he would pay the bills. On the other hand, she now realized with surprise, he was the only person, except her mother, who had ever given her anything. The fact was incredible, but it was a fact, so the chrysanthemums gave her at least the thrill of a new experience. Her friendship with Norma was only six months old, and her own first gifts to others were to be offered this coming Christmas. The Butterflies never had a spare dime among them. From the beginning of their association with her, Chad, and Jim, and Kitty had freely grafted from Dorinda's to give them the expression, dropping in for meals, using her sedan and roadster, filling their flasks and pockets from her sideboard supplies, and doing it all with a frank ostentation which was its redeeming feature. In current vernacular—which was not theirs—they were not "putting anything over." They were merely taking all they could get "while the getting was good," and Dorinda knew that if any of the trio had possessed anything to give it would have been given as freely as its possessor took.

She often wondered how the three leading Butterflies lived in those intervals, increasingly brief, when they were not at the Maxwell house. Bryant, she knew, earned a little by his writing. He could have earned much more if he had been willing to work, but it was clear that he shared Chad's objection to this form of exertion. Chad occasionally mentioned that an "Aunt Julia," living within a trolley ride of Grandon, had sent him a check. As for Kitty, she lived like a sparrow up under the eaves of a ramshackle building in the hinterlands of the suburbs. One walked through a flour and feed store to reach the narrow back steps that led to what she airily called her studio, but which was merely a long, narrow loft, heated by a stove standing close to the grand piano that was Kitty's treasured possession. In this room, which also held a time-abused divan, Dorinda knew that Kitty Perkins dressed and ate and slept and worked at her music when she felt like it, and cooked when she had anything to cook. Dorinda had visited the place only once, in response to a casual invitation of Kitty's after their first meeting, when, as strangers, they had sat side by side at a concert and fallen into talk. After that Kitty had invited Dorinda into the Black Butterflies and what Miss Perkins called life.

"You're alive, and you never have been," Kitty put it. "You're deadlier than a father and mother, poor dear, though you don't know it. However, I can see you stirring in your coffin, so sit up and let us show you some of the wonders of the living world."

It was the wonders of Kitty's music that Kitty showed her first, and the wonders of Kitty's music never failed with any one. During this visit to the studio Chad Bailey, met for the first time that day, pointed that out.

"Away from her piano," he told the newcomer, "Kitty is just a red-haired girl with ugly spectacles and lovely hands and too many bones. At the piano Kitty is Beethoven, Bach, Chopin, Liszt, Hoffman, Paderewski and a dozen others in one, and she takes you up to the morning stars and lets you hear them singing together."

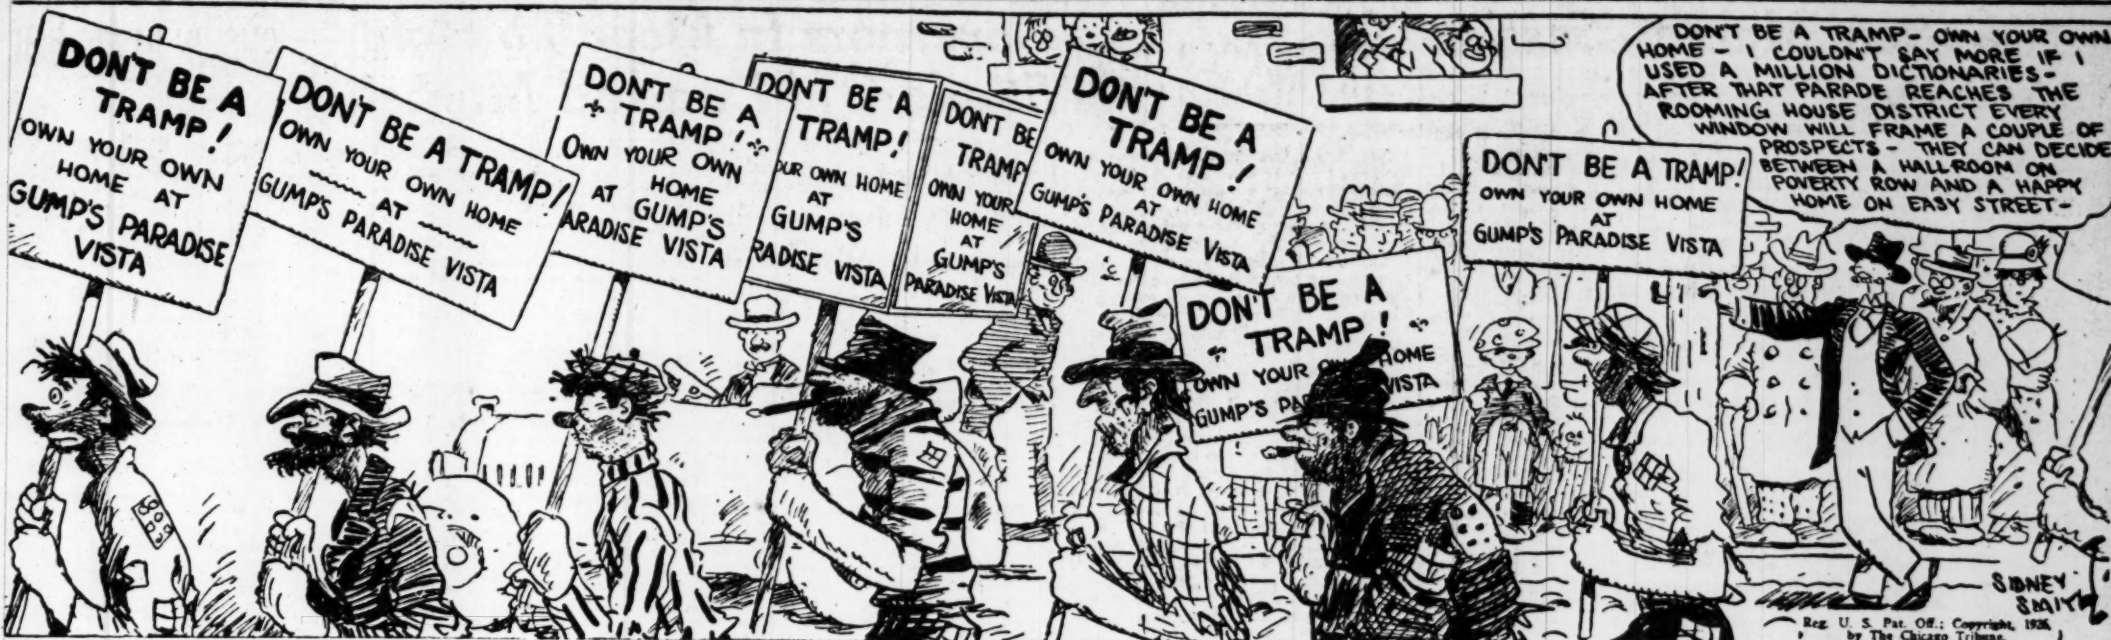

Dorinda admitted that this was true. Kitty made her forget the bare studio, and the springing figure of the famelike Bailey lying full length on the divan, and the scampering mouse back of the stove, and a dark, sardonic youth introduced as Bryant who sat cross-legged on the painted floor with the back of his head resting against Kitty's thigh as she played.

Aside from Kitty's music, the studio's atmosphere was too depressing to encourage many visits, and it did not look at all like Kitty, who was always immaculate and who, surprisingly had an air, despite her shrimpy rimmed spectacles and her casual coiffures.

For one thing Dorinda was abysmally grateful. Not a member of the trio had ever asked her for money, either as a gift or as a loan. She would not have minded parting with the money, but she would have regretted the change of relationship such an episode must have established. So, apparently, would the other three. They had their code, and this was its first article. The subject of money was rarely mentioned by them, and then only in passing. Apparently they lived without it, and the cornerstone of the structure of their hectic friendship was Dorinda's realization that her hospitality, much as they now used and abused it, would not have held them if they had not liked herself. The moment she began to bore them they would fade away, graft or no graft, and would continue to foregather in Kitty's loft, as they had done before Dorinda met them. Indeed, it had not been as easy as the townsfolk imagined to lure them to the luxury and comfort of the Maxwell house. It was only when they discovered that its inmate was interested in their interests and as lacking in social background as themselves that they really accepted her.

Hamilton Charges State Officials Aiding Hardman

That Governor Clifford Walker has sent out hundreds of letters on the state's stationery, the most expensive kind that money can buy, using the state's money for postage, the state's stenographers as aides, is charged by Thomas J. Hamilton, manager of the campaign of John N. Holder, in a statement issued Monday. To prove his charge, Mr. Hamilton submits a photostatic copy of a letter which has been sent out by the hundreds by Governor Walker to his appointees and personal friends throughout the state.

In addition to this letter, Mr. Hamilton charges that Governor Walker, who places five million dollars' worth of fire insurance for the state of Georgia, has written to many insurance agents who expect to place a portion of this insurance, urging them to support Dr. Hardman in his race for governor. This insurance is to be placed in January.

"Governor Walker is so desperate and his machine so active that the state capitol is practically deserted today," continued Mr. Hamilton. "Tom Bennett, the superintendent of banks, is in Mitchell county, his home county, trying to save that county from the fire which has started in the wiregrass country and is sweeping it.

State Officers Hit. "Pete Twitty, the game and (wh) commissioner, not only has all of his employees working, but he is in Laurens county trying to stop the tide flowing in Holder's direction.

"John Vandiver, the tax commissioner, has been in Rome, Floyd county, and his office reports he will not be here until Thursday. John Vandiver has for years been the most skillful and active politician in Floyd county and boasted of being able to control it. And as for Jim Doolittle, who not only has a lucrative job at the capitol but has been piling up numerous liquidating fees for himself for principal and personal affairs in Athens, in Clarke county, working for Dr. Hardman.

"Added to this galaxy of great political stars in the governor's machine are their scores and scores of employees, who have been scattered throughout the state. One of the governor's brothers-in-law, J. B. McCarty, who is a road contractor and a pronounced bond advocate, is one of the officials of the Fulton County Hardman club, and has been charged by Mr. Holder in all of his speeches as the Hardman pay-off man. Another brother-in-law, W. H. Fields, in the employ of John Vandiver, has been temporarily transferred from other points in Georgia to go to work for Dr. Hardman in Barlow county, which went for Holder in the last primary, and will go for him by a bigger majority in this primary. Every eye in the Walker-Bennett machine is working for Hardman.

Opposition Desperate. "That the Hardman people are desperate and disorganized is plainly evidenced by the false and childish statements emanating from his state and local headquarters.

"In the Hardman headquarters, where there are almost all paid workers whose salary checks are their only incentive, it is natural that they must try and earn their pay in some way. Therefore they resort to methods of falsehoods and billingsgates.

"Not satisfied with printing once the humorous statement that there was discord in the Holder headquarters in the Atlanta Constitution on Sunday, they resort to the same foolishness in today's issue. Perhaps they think that reiteration will convince somebody. There is perfect and complete harmony in the Holder headquarters—the sort of harmony that comprises impending victory. Every man working for John Holder is doing so for principle and personal affection and love for the candidate himself. Perhaps if those in the Hardman headquarters were actuated by the same motives they would stick to the issues in the campaign and not resort to falsehood and billingsgates.

"So desperate are these paid workers that they resort to the same foolishness to be published in today's issue. A letter from a fake man to an unknown person in an unknown county. This is in keeping with the complete harmony in the Holder headquarters when they find the flood of gold which they have turned loose in the state is not influencing the untrammeled voters of Georgia.

"John Holder's platform and his speeches and the reception accorded him in the last two weeks have been the most remarkable in the history of Georgia politics. Ever-increasing crowds have greeted him and ever-increasing enthusiasm has been his own. That he is a great leader, Dr. Hardman and the Clifford Walker machine on Wednesday there is no doubt in our minds."

STOCK JUDGING CHAMPION TEAM INSPECTS FAIR

The winning stock judging team in Georgia, composed of Paul Howell and Staton Harper, both of Elbert county, and Alton Pullen, of Spalding county, accompanied by Frank W. They spent the day Monday inspecting the Southeastern Fair live stock show at Lakewood park.

ACKERMAN TALKS ON CHILEAN TRADE

With an area greater than France, Belgium, and Switzerland combined, Chile purchases more than $100,000,000 worth of commodities from the rest of the world, it was pointed out by Ralph H. Ackerman, American commercial attaché at the capital city of the southernmost republic of the western hemisphere, speaking before the Atlanta Trade club Monday night at the chamber of commerce. H. O. Williamson, president of the club, presided.

"Our share of this vast commerce at present amounts to nearly $30,000,000 annually," Mr. Ackerman stated. "Despite severe competition from European countries, it has maintained its position as a supplier of Chile's needs. The past seven years has clearly demonstrated the ability of American manufacturers to become the most productive and profitable of their foreign competitors while maintaining a wage standard higher than elsewhere in the world."

Commercial Attaché Ackerman attributes the success of American manufacturers, their insistence upon quality, price and service, based on what experience in the United States has taught them. He pointed out that the results and predicted that so long as our exporting fraternity continues to apply its best efforts to giving Chilean customers the highest quality of goods, the volume of trade will continue to increase.

Leonard M. Brin, assistant trade commissioner to Mexico, outlined conditions in that country affecting American trade. In an open forum session was conducted during which both visiting officials were asked questions on the conduct of trade in Chile and Mexico.

Mr. Brin left on an early morning train for New Orleans where he will confer with gift exporters, following which he will visit other points in the United States.

Chest Best Way Of Raising Funds, Say Service Heads

The Community Chest is the only practical method of financing the social service and relief needs of Atlanta's poor, it was agreed unanimously by directors of all 34 of the charitable agencies dependent on the chest, who held their first joint meeting at the chamber of commerce Monday night preparatory to the fourth annual appeal for funds, to be made October 22.

"Although we have suffered more than any other agency, perhaps, from the failure of the chest to reach its budget in preceding campaigns, we are satisfied that we are rendering a better service to the orphaned and unfortunate children of Atlanta even with limited funds as raised through the chest plan than we could have rendered with more funds expended without the close co-operation from other agencies which is possible only through the community chest. It was asserted by Sam E. Fisher, director of the Atlanta Child's home, which was the first agency called upon, in alphabetical order, to register its opinion of the community chest's stewardship during the four years of its existence.

Every one of the 34 agencies dependent on the chest was called upon in turn for an expression of its attitude toward the chest. Spoken for on behalf of the chest by the directors of the Atlanta Child's home, which was the first agency called upon, in alphabetical order, to register its opinion of the community chest's stewardship during the four years of its existence.

Bayne Gibson, president of the chest, who presided at the meeting, hailed the attendance, representing all the dependent agencies, as the most encouraging development in the entire progress of campaign preparations.

T. K. Glen, chairman of the campaign executive committee, who presided at the meeting, praised the attitude of the chest boards and asserted that his study of the question proved to him beyond all doubt that the chest method is the only practical method of meeting the social service and relief needs.

Following an address by W. Bayne Gibson, president of the community chest, and an extemporaneous appeal by the Rev. Marvin Williams, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church, the Atlanta Evangelical Ministers' union, at its meeting on the fourth day of the chest, pledged its support to the fourth annual campaign of the chest, and expressed its confidence in the chest method of caring for the community's responsibility toward the poor, the unfortunate, and the underprivileged.

ARREST NEGROES AFTER NEAR RIOT ON STREET CAR

A near panic which began to take on riotous proportions was checked Monday night by quick action on the part of city police on a West Hunter street car at Edgewood avenue and North Pryor street, when three negroes were arrested and placed under $500 bond each, after several windows in the street car had been broken.

The police were able to learn but few details of the row which was said to have started in the rear of the street car.

ALDERMEN DELAY NAMING PREACHER SCHOOL ARCHITECT

All matters passed to the aldermen Monday morning by council with the single exception of naming G. Lloyd Preacher as supervising architect to supervise construction of schools from funds of the recent bond issue were ratified.

Alderman Oscar Williamson held this up for further investigation, and the board will consider the paper when it meets again.

The board failed to concur in several pay hikes of salaries of members of the office force and heads of the department of construction, which were held up for further consideration at the last meeting of that body, but passed several other raises in the same department.

Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth, who at the last meeting of the board held the pay increase up, voted for those which passed Monday. These papers will go to Mayor Walter A. Sims today for his approval. The raises granted amount to about $24,000 annually and affect about 50 employees.
